

Email response received 1 July 2005 from Mr Frederick Warwick:

I agreed with the questions that were on the site asking if we approved or not of the issues raised. In other words I thought the questions were right to ask and the teams comments on the action proposed were correct. I then added a comment that why do we need three levels of licences. Two were enough if a licence was needed but, even then, why need two. Another comment was that the restrictions on the use of wavelength was not really necessary as I am sure that foundation licence holders inadvertently strayed beyond their legal limit..
