

I wish to add my name to the growing list of people demanding that a part of the electromagnetic spectrum released by the shut down of Terrestrial Analogue UHF television service is reserved for a free to air HD TV service. I feel that this is particularly important that the BBC who has used licence payers money to develop its HDTV service should be allowed to provide this service to as wide an audience as possible using existing receiving antenna.

Graham L Thompson MIET