

Hello

I am concerned regarding your statement that H D will not be available on Freeview when Analogue is switched off

You see I am a TV Engineer and I meet quite a few of my customers who have bought HD ready sets and ARE expecting Freeview HD on their TV without having to get a subscription to NTL or SKY they dont want another Box its to complicated for them even if it was Freesat as well You see most of my customers are +50 onwards

They dont want a Freeview Box either they want it ALL included in the set itself so there you have it Lets have the 5 Main Channels in HD on Freeview

Yours Faithfully M L Wallworth