

Contents

|            |   |           |
|------------|---|-----------|
| 1   | Overview   | 11 |
| 1.1 | Introduction   | 13 |
| 1.2 | Key communications themes                                  | 14 |
| 1.2.1      | Communications consumers get more for their money                 | 14        |
| 1.2.2      | Young people are moving away from old media                       | 14        |
| 1.2.3      | Competition in bundling heats up                                  | 15        |
| 1.3 | The year in communications                                 | 17 |
| 1.3.1      | Introduction  | 17        |
| 1.3.2      | Availability: 3G and LLU extend reach of communications services  | 17        |
| 1.3.3      | New services over existing platforms                              | 20        |
| 1.3.4      | New services over new platforms                                   | 23        |
| 1.3.5      | New ways of watching and listening                                | 25        |
| 1.3.6      | Competition and technology help to deliver lower prices           | 27        |
| 1.3.7      | Take-up: digital TV penetration grows, broadband now mass-market  | 29        |
| 1.4 | The communications industry                                | 32 |
| 1.4.1      | Introduction: the emergence of bundled products                   | 32        |
| 1.4.2      | New technologies may require new pricing structures               | 33        |
| 1.4.3      | Overall broadcasting and telecoms revenues reach £50.6bn          | 33        |
| 1.4.4      | Subscriptions drive TV revenue growth, with advertising slowing   | 34        |
| 1.4.5      | The financial markets   | 36        |
| 1.5 | The communications consumer                                | 38 |
| 1.5.1      | Introduction  | 38        |
| 1.5.2      | Spend declines despite increased usage                            | 38        |
| 1.5.3      | Consumption – more broadband, more TV, less radio                 | 39        |
| 1.5.4      | Consumption patterns are changing for young adults                | 40        |
| 1.6 | Spectrum   | 44 |
| 1.6.1      | Introduction: an important component of the communications market | 44        |
| 1.6.2      | New uses of spectrum  | 44        |
| 1.6.3      | Spectrum auctions   | 45        |

|            |   |            |
|------------|---|------------|
| 1.6.4      | Spectrum trading  | 46         |
| 1.6.5      | Digital Dividend Review   | 46         |
| 1.6.6      | Ultra Wideband (UWB)  | 46         |
| 1.6.7      | Cave audit  | 47         |
| 2   | Radio  | 49  |
| 2.1 | Key themes   | 51  |
| 2.1.1      | Local commercial radio loses out to national commercial radio and the BBC | 51         |
| 2.2 | The year in radio  | 52  |
| 2.2.1      | Digital listening continues to rise                                       | 52         |
| 2.2.2      | Number of stations available in the UK rises to 384                       | 53         |
| 2.2.3      | Digital distribution offers new ways to reach listeners                   | 58         |
| 2.2.4      | TV operators continue to expand into radio                                | 59         |
| 2.2.5      | Future radio policy framework takes shape                                 | 59         |
| 2.3 | The radio industry   | 61  |
| 2.3.1      | Radio revenue shrinks by 1.7% driven by falling commercial income         | 61         |
| 2.3.2      | Radio group characteristics   | 62         |
| 2.3.3      | Overview of the major radio operators in 2005                             | 66         |
| 2.3.4      | The commercial radio groups   | 66         |
| 2.3.5      | Service availability and station choice                                   | 77         |
| 2.3.6      | Purpose and use of long-term RSLs (L-RSLs)                                | 85         |
| 2.4 | The radio listener   | 87  |
| 2.4.1      | Access to digital radio continues to rise                                 | 87         |
| 2.4.2      | Weekly radio reach in the UK  | 91         |
| 2.4.3      | BBC network listening exceeds all commercial listening for the first time | 93         |
| 2.4.4      | Broadly stable total hours of listening mask significant shifts by age    | 93         |
| 3   | Telecommunications   | 105 |
| 3.1 | Key themes   | 108 |
| 3.1.1      | Telecoms prices fall, driven by increased competition                     | 108        |

|            |  |            |
|------------|--|------------|
| 3.1.2      | Broadband gets faster, but some consumers are unaware of limitations         | 108        |
| 3.1.3      | TV comes to mobile and broadband   | 110        |
| 3.1.4      | Over half of online 16-24 year olds regularly use social networking websites | 110        |
| 3.2 | The year in telecoms  | 112 |
| 3.2.1      | Fixed-line revenue falls again, but mobile and broadband continue to grow    | 112        |
| 3.2.2      | Mobile TV and internet TV take big steps forward                             | 112        |
| 3.2.3      | LLU takes off, spurred by new regulatory environment                         | 117        |
| 3.2.4      | Broadband pricing gets aggressive  | 118        |
| 3.2.5      | Major mergers and acquisitions drive bundling strategies                     | 121        |
| 3.2.6      | Residential VoIP gains traction  | 126        |
| 3.2.7      | 3G grows further   | 130        |
| 3.2.8      | WiFi gets joined up  | 132        |
| 3.3 | The telecoms industry   | 135 |
| 3.3.1      | Introduction   | 135        |
| 3.3.2      | Total telecoms turnover rises to £46.6bn                                     | 135        |
| 3.3.3      | BT remains the largest UK telco  | 135        |
| 3.3.4      | Mobile continues as the dominant contributor to UK revenue                   | 136        |
| 3.3.5      | Market share of telecoms connections continues to fragment                   | 138        |
| 3.3.6      | Mobile connections grow while fixed lines fall                               | 138        |
| 3.3.7      | Fewer fixed lines, despite increased competition                             | 139        |
| 3.3.8      | Fixed-line call volumes decline  | 139        |
| 3.3.9      | Fixed-line charges fall again  | 140        |
| 3.3.10     | Total fixed-line voice revenue continues to drop                             | 141        |
| 3.3.11     | CPS continues strong growth  | 143        |
| 3.3.12     | Competition further dents BT's fixed-line volume share                       | 144        |
| 3.3.13     | Broadband continues as the fastest-growing telecoms platform                 | 145        |
| 3.3.14     | BT increases its share of the wholesale broadband market                     | 146        |
| 3.3.15     | BT remains the market leader in broadband retail subscriptions               | 147        |
| 3.3.16     | Mobile remains the most important telecoms revenue generator                 | 147        |
| 3.3.17     | Mobile termination rates fall again  | 150        |
| 3.3.18     | Off-net mobile prices fall steeply   | 150        |

|            |   |            |
|------------|---|------------|
| 3.3.19     | Mobile subscriptions continue strong growth   | 151        |
| 3.3.20     | For business users, mobile spend eats further into fixed-line                               | 152        |
| 3.3.21     | BT halts its decline in business fixed call volume share                                    | 152        |
| 3.3.22     | IP-based solutions for corporate customers offer further growth for fixed network providers | 153        |
| 3.4 | The telecoms user  | 156 |
| 3.4.1      | Introduction  | 156        |
| 3.4.2      | Slight decline in household spend on telecoms services                                      | 156        |
| 3.4.3      | Mobile penetration now at near-saturation, internet still rising                            | 157        |
| 3.4.4      | Mobile gaining ground as main method of making calls  | 158        |
| 3.4.5      | SMS usage continues to grow   | 160        |
| 3.4.6      | BT volumes fall further as switching levels increase  | 160        |
| 3.4.7      | Residential prices continue to fall across the board  | 161        |
| 3.4.8      | Residential consumers are broadly satisfied with fixed and mobile services                  | 163        |
| 3.4.9      | Non-SMS mobile data use starts to grow  | 163        |
| 3.4.10     | Internet take-up grows, fuelled by broadband  | 164        |
| 3.4.11     | Availability and take-up of higher-speed broadband both grow                                | 165        |
| 3.4.12     | Consumers are still confused about broadband limitations                                    | 166        |
| 3.4.13     | Most non-internet homes are voluntarily excluded  | 168        |
| 3.4.14     | A higher proportion now use the internet every day  | 169        |
| 3.4.15     | Broadband subscribers download more video/audio than dial-up subscribers                    | 170        |
| 3.4.16     | Google tops the online destination charts   | 171        |
| 3.4.17     | Social networking and blogging sites take off   | 172        |
| 3.4.18     | Residential satisfaction with internet services grows                                       | 176        |
| 3.4.19     | SME mobile penetration falls  | 177        |
| 3.4.20     | Business fixed-line spend falls again...  | 177        |
| 3.4.21     | ...as business fixed-line call volumes continue to decline                                  | 178        |
| 3.4.22     | Larger SMEs switch fixed calls and mobile suppliers more often                              | 178        |
| 3.4.23     | Broadband now dominates SME internet connectivity   | 179        |
| 4   | Television   | 181 |
| 4.1        | Key themes - Television   | 184        |
| 4.1.1      | Strong performance by mainstream networks' spin-off channels                                | 184        |
| 4.1.2      | Competition for audiences intensifies on Freeview   | 184        |

|            |  |            |
|------------|--|------------|
| 4.1.3      | Operators bring content on demand and on the move to market                    | 185        |
| 4.1.4      | Roadmap for digital switchover takes shape                                     | 185        |
| 4.2 | The year in TV  | 186 |
| 4.2.1      | The five mainstream channels spin offs gain share                              | 186        |
| 4.2.2      | Multichannel TV gains in popularity on Freeview                                | 187        |
| 4.2.3      | The five main channels diversify revenue sources                               | 188        |
| 4.2.4      | On-demand content shifts up a gear   | 189        |
| 4.2.5      | The industry embraces content on the move                                      | 191        |
| 4.2.6      | Emerging policy framework defines future shape of TV market                    | 192        |
| 4.2.7      | Another year of record TV licence awards                                       | 193        |
| 4.2.8      | High definition television comes to market for the World Cup                   | 194        |
| 4.2.9      | Digital television - the roadmap to switchover is revealed                     | 196        |
| 4.2.10     | Platform operators launch service enhancements                                 | 199        |
| 4.2.11     | Channel operators launch new channels  | 201        |
| 4.3 | The television industry   | 204 |
| 4.3.1      | TV revenue exceeded £10.5bn in 2005  | 204        |
| 4.3.2      | The multichannels continue to build advertising share                          | 205        |
| 4.3.3      | Industry flow of funds– subscription revenue shows significant growth          | 207        |
| 4.3.4      | Total industry output stood at 1.4 million hours in 2005                       | 208        |
| 4.3.5      | Originated hours fall due to ITV1's reduced regional output                    | 209        |
| 4.3.6      | Factual has been the growth peak-time PSB genre for seven years                | 211        |
| 4.3.7      | ITV, BBC and Five increase the proportion of peak time General Factual in 2005 | 213        |
| 4.3.8      | Entertainment and Children's were the largest multichannel genres              | 216        |
| 4.3.9      | Compliance with regulatory obligations   | 219        |
| 4.3.10     | Original productions   | 220        |
| 4.3.11     | Regional productions   | 220        |
| 4.3.12     | Independent productions  | 222        |
| 4.3.13     | News and current affairs   | 224        |
| 4.3.14     | Programmes made for a regional audience  | 225        |
| 4.3.15     | Repeats  | 227        |
| 4.3.16     | European programming   | 228        |
| 4.3.17     | Operators' market shares   | 232        |

|            |   |            |
|------------|---|------------|
| 4.3.18     | The five main channels retained more share in peak than in other slots  | 233        |
| 4.3.19     | Share loss from the five mainstream networks offset by spin-off channels  | 234        |
| 4.3.20     | Competition for Freeview audiences intensified in 2005  | 235        |
| 4.3.21     | Five mainstream networks' portfolio share holds up in multichannel homes  | 236        |
| 4.3.22     | The production sector   | 241        |
| 4.4 | The television viewer  | 247 |
| 4.4.1      | Multichannel broadcast platforms available to consumers   | 247        |
| 4.4.2      | Freeview drove the growth of multichannel homes in 2005   | 250        |
| 4.4.3      | Future growth in multichannel homes looks set to continue   | 252        |
| 4.4.4      | Freeview attracts an older, more affluent demographic   | 254        |
| 4.4.5      | Consumption of television services  | 255        |
| 4.4.6      | TV reach amongst younger people is falling  | 256        |
| 4.4.7      | The picture of channel share since 1955 – multichannels making inroads into the share of the five mainstream networks | 258        |
| 4.4.8      | Total share of Entertainment channels grows, driven by Freeview   | 260        |
| 4.4.9      | The five main networks' spin-off channels gained share in 2005  | 264        |
| 4.4.10     | Multichannel operators cater for most audience demographics   | 266        |
| 4.4.11     | Violence, swearing and intrusion remain key concerns for the public   | 267        |
| 4.4.12     | Television remains the public's primary source for news   | 269        |
| 4.4.13     | TV news viewing is declining  | 271        |
| 4.4.14     | Regulating television for the protection of children and youth  | 273        |
| 4.4.15     | Public attitudes toward advertising   | 277        |
|            | Glossary of terms and definitions  | 279 |
|            | List of figures  | 286 |