

Hello and good afternoon: I have received the consultative document regarding the changes to the licensing arrangements.

I have looked at my file here at UCL, and cannot relate the information I have to that provided in the attached frequency list.

Aside from that, I have no objection to transferring to the new arrangements, especially as the accompanying letter suggests that it might be cheaper, and cheap is what we need here at UCL, as we have a £10 million deficit.

We only use our 6 hand-held units on field course, or when carrying out research in the field - ie, we do not use them in a static mode.

Please would you let me have your comments on the foregoing.

Thanks,

Kevin Saint

Departmental Administrator and Licence Holder

PS: While you may not be the person to deal with this, the RA frequently confuse our licence (Geomatic Engineering, formerly Photogrammetry & Surveying) with that of UCL central licence -101980 £600.00 p.a. probably in the name of Estates & Facilities, or Central Services - please would you make the distinction.

Thanks.
