

TRINITY HOUSE

I have been asked to respond to the consultation document on RSA on behalf of Trinity House the Lighthouse Authority for England, Wales and the Channel Islands.

The services to which this concept would be applied are not used by the lighthouse authorities, although VSATs could be of use at some time in the future. The decision to apply for RSA would lie with the service provider, not the user. Therefore no answers to the specific questions have been prepared. One observation is that the incentive to apply for RSA is not very clear from the consultation document.
