Additional comments:

Question 1: Do you agree that copy management would broaden the range of HD content available on DTT and help secure its long term viability as a platform? :

No - I think it is a dreadful idea. Copy Management or DRM as it is more properly known limits the ability for users to access the things that we have all paid for. I strongly disagree with the proposal.

Question 2: Do you agree that the BBC's proposed multiplex licence amendment represents the most appropriate means for securing an effective content management system on HD DTT? :

No - There is no need go implement this feature.

Question 3: Do you agree with the proposed change to Condition 6 in the Multiplex B Licence? :

no - why limit this availability, it is foolish

Question 4: Do you agree that Multiplexes C and D should be granted a similar amendment to their Licences as Multiplex B?. :

no

Question 5: Do you agree that the BBC's proposed approach for implementing content management would safeguard citizens and consumers legitimate use of HD content, and if not, what additional guarantees would be appropriate? :

no - there is no requirement for this as has been shown in the US model. They have managed to implement HDTV without these limitations.

Question 6: Do you agree that the BBC's proposed choice of content management technologies will have only a negligible impact on the cost of HD DTT receivers and their interoperability with other HD consumer equipment? . :

No - it will limit choice

Question 7: Do stakeholders agree that the BBC's proposed Huffman Code licensing arrangements would have a negligible effect on the market for HD DTT receivers? :

no

Question 8: Do the BBC's proposed content management states and their permitted use for different categories of HD content meet the requirements of other HD broadcasters on DTT? . :

no

Question 9: Are there any issues that you consider Ofcom should take into account in assessing the BBC's proposal, that have not been addressed by this consultation?:

This consultation is poorly worded and inaccessible to all but very technical people - I would suggest re-issuing it with the questions worded more effectively and with a less positive spin.
