

Freedom of Information: Right to know request

Thank you for your request for information on complaints about Iman FM. Your request was received on 10 July 2017 and I am dealing with it under the terms of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (“the Act”).

You requested details of all complaints received by Ofcom about Iman FM and the nature of the complaints.

Before responding to your question, I would like to provide some background information on Ofcom’s complaints procedures and reporting.

Complaints about content standards are handled under Ofcom’s Procedures for investigating breaches of content standards for television and radio^[1].

Individual complaints received by Ofcom are assigned to cases. A case is opened when Ofcom is assessing a specific programme or issue and may consist of one or more complaints.

Ofcom assesses every complaint it receives. Based on an initial assessment of the complaint and a consideration of the related content, Ofcom will consider whether there may have been a breach of the Broadcasting Code (or other Ofcom codes or licence conditions). In cases where Ofcom considers there may have been a breach, it will launch an investigation. The possible outcomes of an investigation are that we judge an issue is in breach, resolved or not in breach of our rules.

Ofcom’s Broadcast and On Demand Bulletin, published every fortnight on our website, includes decisions about the complaints we have considered. The Bulletin covers a range of cases, including those which Ofcom has escalated for full investigation, and those which, after careful assessment, Ofcom has decided not to pursue because they did not raise issues warranting investigation. The Bulletins can be accessed via the following link to our website: <https://www.ofcom.org.uk/about-ofcom/latest/bulletins/broadcast-bulletins>

You can therefore find details of complaints we have considered about the programmes you listed in the Bulletins. However, for ease of reference I have compiled a list of relevant cases in the form published in the respective Bulletins, below.

For the following cases, after careful assessment of the complaints and the broadcast material, Ofcom did not identify any issues which warranted further investigation under its rules.

The following case was referred for investigation by Ofcom, and then judged to be in breach of the Broadcasting Code.

Programme	Service	Transmission Date
Iman FM	Iman FM	14/06/2017

Given the nature and seriousness of the breach, on 4 July 2017 Ofcom exercised its powers under section 111B of the Broadcasting Act 1990 to suspend Iman FM's licence. Iman FM had until 25 July to make representations to Ofcom about the matters contained in the Suspension Notice. Following both written and oral representations from Iman Media UK Limited, Ofcom has decided that it is necessary in the public interest to revoke the licensee's Broadcasting Act licence, and that the licensee is unfit to hold a broadcast licence.

Full details of the breach decision and revocation notice are available here:

Ofcom is unable to disclose further details of the complaints beyond that provided above, and as listed in the Bulletins. Section 44 of the Act prevents organisations releasing information if another act has said that it should not. Section 393 of the Communications Act prevents Ofcom releasing information if it is about a particular business, unless we have the consent of that business or releasing that information helps Ofcom to carry out its duties, neither of which apply here.
