

If the contract is for a term fixed then if the price is increased then you should not be held to ransom. Just as with energy contracts. Price goes up and you vote with your feet! Without penalty. Price stops if you give say 30days notice. Does the unfair contracts condition apply?