

Question 1:Do you agree that Ofcom should grant approval to Royal Mail for the Delivery to Neighbour service? If not please explain your answer. :

Absolutely not. Royal Mail is supposed to provide a service to the people of the UK, instead due to their own mismanagement, they consistently try to reduce services to their clients in order to reduce costs. This is its most recent money saving idea that restricts the quality of service to their clients.

Question 2:Are there other consequences following the roll out of the service across the UK that we have not included in our assessment? If so, please explain.:

Yes, there are countless. What about those who do not trust their neighbours nor get along with them? What about those who are very private and do not want to be involved on a day to day basis with their neighbours? What about those who are too busy to run around to their neighbours and play package tag? What about those who need a package and then can't find their neighbours? The present system is FAR more suitable and effective.

Question 3:Do you have any comments on the scope and wording of the proposed Notification and approval:
