Seems more like royalmail off setting their workload by dumping items onto peoples neighbours

Question 1:Do you agree that Ofcom should grant approval to Royal Mail for the Delivery to Neighbour service? If not please explain your answer. :

No! Why should i have to adorne my front door/window with a sticker to stop post person knocking for me to take delivery of neighbours mail. If people want to shop online and expect deliveries at home then they should make own arrangments with neighbours. On no account would i want any of my deliveries going to a noseey neighbour, i expect my privacy and this includeds neighbours reading labels to see where parcels may have come from.

Question 2:Are there other consequences following the roll out of the service across the UK that we have not included in our assessment? If so, please explain.:

how many neighbours doors will a post person knock on to get an answer to leave items with, and supposing a parcel gets left with a neighbour then they denie taking it in, royal mail will claim they got a signature from neighbour, but not many trustworthy, sender will say its nothing to do with them and the recipient will be left with the hassle and out of pocket if packages vanish,

If its got your name and address on it, thats the ony place it should go too

Question 3:Do you have any comments on the scope and wording of the proposed Notification and approval:
