

Question 1:Do you agree that Ofcom should grant approval to Royal Mail for the Delivery to Neighbour service? If not please explain your answer. :

No, because it is over-inclusive- it does not allow necessary flexibility to choose which neighbours would be acceptable. Living in Inner London this is essential- I do not want my mail delivered to the ex-offenders and current drug abusers living next door but there are other neighbours I would happily accept and reciprocate on mail delivery.

Question 2:Are there other consequences following the roll out of the service across the UK that we have not included in our assessment? If so, please explain.:

If the choice is a] allow anyone nearby to accept your mail/recorded delivery etc or b] go to the Sorting Office I am mobile and can walk to there- There implication for disabled or housebound people who would that they will not be able to choose the Sorting Office option- unless this has been agreed with Social Services to cover the cost and arrangement of transport as for other essential appointments

Question 3:Do you have any comments on the scope and wording of the proposed Notification and approval:

It seems to allow or even promote a fall in the standards and integrity of the Royal Mail, From their own experience in staff recruitment it must be known that honesty cannot be assumed
