General information

1. Submitting a licence application form does not permit you to use or even install any equipment – you must wait until we have issued the licence and you have received it.
2. Under the terms of the Wireless Telegraphy Act 2006, it is an offence to install or use radio apparatus, unless:
 - you do so under and in accordance with a licence issued by Ofcom (the Office of Communications); or
 - the apparatus is specifically exempt from licensing.
3. The purpose of this licence is to authorise use of manually configurable white space devices (MCWSDs). A white space device is deemed to be manually configurable if the user can manually input a device parameter (for instance the device's location, its type, class of emissions and antenna gain) by entering it into the device. Further details can be found in our Statement on MCWSDs here: Manually Configurable White Space Device Statement 2015.
4. Radio equipment operated under a MCWSD licence must only be operated in accordance with operational parameters provided by a white space database that has been qualified by Ofcom to provide services to MCWSDs and that is listed on the discoverable list on Ofcom's website: <https://twws-databases.ofcom.org.uk/>
5. This licence does not provide guaranteed access to frequencies in any given location or for any given period of time. White space availability and the permitted transmit power is subject to change and will vary depending on the type of device and type of use.
6. Licensees are permitted to deploy radio equipment under this licence anywhere within the UK or Isle of Man. However, radio equipment may only operate in accordance with operational parameters provided by a white space database provider, as noted in paragraph 4.
7. White space devices that are automatically configured may be operated without a licence under The Wireless Telegraphy (White Space Devices) (Exemption) Regulations 2015 (S.I. 2015/2066), as amended, available at: http://www.legislation.gov.uk/uksi/2015/2066/pdfs/ukxi_20152066_en.pdf
8. The licence includes a requirement for a licensee to have in place a written quality assurance procedure to ensure the correct configuration of the radio equipment. More information on the quality assurance requirement can be found in OfW 571.
9. The licence includes a requirement to compile and maintain an installation record for each device and submit the record to the database in the form and manner agreed with the database before the device may be operated. The information which must be included in the installation record is shown in Schedule 3, table 1 of the licence.
10. The licence fee for this licence type is currently a fixed annual fee of £1,500. A request for payment will be sent to you after your application has been processed and this fee must be paid in full before the licence will be issued. Please note that licence fees may vary from time-to-time as set by Ofcom in the Wireless Telegraphy (Licence Charges) Regulations.
11. Ofcom may request copies of information provided by you (or provided by your devices) to the white space database directly from the database. More details on provision of information are provided in the licence document.

Radio Interference

White space devices share the 470-790 MHz frequency band with other spectrum users including digital television and wireless microphones, etc. For the purposes of interference management, Ofcom has arrangements in place with white space databases such that we can instruct devices to cease transmitting, or limit its power, while we investigate reported interference.
