Introduction

This PDF edition of the Broadcast and On Demand Bulletin has been produced due to ongoing issues with Ofcom's website, which we are working on resolving. It has been created to ensure that the public have access to our latest assessment data as an interim measure.

Please note that the following pages only contain complaints assessed within the reporting period for the Broadcast and On Demand Bulletin Issue 553. Past complaints data will be available on our website as soon as we are able to provide them.

Standards cases assessed, not pursued

Here is a table of complaints that, after careful assessment, Ofcom has decided not to pursue because they did not raise substantive issues warranting investigation.

Complaints outside of remit

Here is a table of complaints received by Ofcom that fell outside of our remit. This is because Ofcom is not responsible for regulating this issue complained about. For example, the complaints were about the content of television, radio or on demand adverts; the complaints were made outside of the time limit stated in our Procedures for investigating breaches of content standards for television and radio; or the complaints were about a service that does not fall within the scope of regulation.

BBC First

Ofcom is the independent regulator of the BBC. Under the BBC Agreement, Ofcom can normally only consider complaints about BBC programme where the complaint has already complained to the BBC and the BBC has reached its final decisions (the 'BBC First' approach). The complaints in this table had been made to Ofcom before completing the BBC's complaints process.
