Award of Licences B, C and D

7. It was AGREED that all the information sought by the ITC pertaining to a decision on awards of the multiplex licences B, C and D had now been assembled, and that Members should proceed to decide whether, or to whom, to award of each these licences, having regard to the applications received, including relevant supplementary proposals, the further information provided by the applicants, the results of the public consultation and the detailed discussion of these matters at previous Commission meetings.

8. Following discussion, it was DETERMINED that for each of multiplex licences B, C and D:

- (i) having regard to the extent to which, taking into account the matters specified in section 8(2) of the Broadcasting Act 1996 and representations made to the Commission in pursuance of section 7(8)(b) with respect to those matters, the award of each licence to each applicant would be calculated to promote the development of digital television broadcasting in the United Kingdom otherwise than by satellite;
- (ii) taking into account the ITC's general duties under the Broadcasting Acts 1990 and 1996 concerning the exercise of its licensing functions, including its competition duties; and
- (iii) having regard to relevant EC law;

each of these licences should be awarded to British Digital Broadcasting plc.
