Freedom of Information request: Right to know request

Thank you for your request for information about a list of trusted providers for Apple's ID-based age verification.

We received this request on 27 March 2026 and we have considered it under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 ('the FOI Act').

Your request and our response

I would like to know who the providers are for Apple's recent age verification push. Apple states that my data is only ever handed to their "trusted providers" yet does not list them in a clear & accessible way. Many providers for ID-based age verification are known to have security & privacy issues, and I would like to weigh my options before submitting PII.

While we do hold information that falls within scope of your request, we are unable to disclose this information as we consider it is exempt under section 44 of the FOI Act. Section 44(1) of the FOI Act provides that information is exempt from disclosure if its disclosure is prohibited by or under any enactment. The enactment that prohibits the disclosure of this information is section 393(1) of the Communications Act 2003 ("the Communications Act"). Under this section, we are prohibited from disclosing information with respect to a particular business that has been obtained in the exercise of our regulatory functions, unless that business consents or one of the statutory gateways under section 393(2) of the Communications Act is met, neither of which apply here. Section 44 of the FOI Act is an absolute exemption and therefore is not subject to the public interest test.

You may wish to contact Apple's privacy or data protection team, who may be able to assist with your enquiry.

Yours sincerely,

Request an internal review

If you are unhappy with the response you have received to your request for information, or think that your request was refused without a reason valid under the law, you may ask for an internal review. If you do, it will be subject to an independent review within Ofcom. We will either uphold the original decision, or reverse or modify it.

If you would like to ask us to carry out an internal review, you should get in touch within two months of the date of this letter. There is no statutory deadline for us to complete our internal review, and the time it takes will depend on the complexity of the request. But we will try to complete the review within 20 working days (or no more than 40 working days in exceptional cases) and keep you informed of our progress. Please email the Information Requests team (information.requests@ofcom.org.uk) to request an internal review.

Taking it further

If you are unhappy with the outcome of our internal review, then you have the right to complain to the Information Commissioner's Office.
