

Direction under section 106(3) of the Communications Act 2003 applying the electronic communications code

Background

- 1. The Applicant has applied to Ofcom for a direction applying the Code to the Applicant.
- 2. The date on which Ofcom received a completed application that meets the statutory requirements with respect to the content of an application for a direction applying the Code and the manner in which such an application is to be made was 15 October 2020.
- 3. By virtue of regulation 3 of the Electronic Communications and Wireless Telegraphy Regulations 2011 (SI 2011 No. 1210), except in cases of expropriation, Ofcom must make its decision within 6 months of receiving the completed application.
- 4. Prior to giving a decision under section 106(3) of the Act to apply the Code to the Applicant, Ofcom must publish a notification of its proposal to give the direction and consider any representations about that proposal that are made to Ofcom within the period specified in the notification.
- 5. On 22 December 2020, Ofcom published, in accordance with section 107(6) of the Act, a notification of its proposal to give a direction applying the Code to the Applicant for the reasons set out in the consultation document accompanying that notification. That notification invited representations to Ofcom by no later than 5pm on 22 January 2021.
- 6. Ofcom received two representations objecting to the proposal. The respondents' concerns were about the general regime governing Code powers, particularly the rights available to Code operators under the Act to deploy structures for electronic communications networks. The first respondent was particularly concerned about the quality of reinstatement works in public highways and the second respondent was concerned about the possible disruptions associated with works in public highways.
- 7. Having considered the objections to the proposal, Ofcom concluded that the response raised issues concerning Government policy relating to the rollout of advanced communications networks and the applicable planning regime. In particular, Government policy underpinning the statutory framework which establishes the Code and the rights available to Code operators. Ofcom has no power to alter these policies or the statutory framework that sets out the Code. It is therefore unable to include consideration of the issues raised by the respondents as part of its assessment of the application.
- 8. We also note that there are certain regulatory safeguards in place. Under the New Roads and Street Works Act 1991, Code operators undertaking street works must notify highways authorities of street works and carry out this work, including reinstatement, to standards specified in the relevant statutory code of practice. Highway authorities have the power to require remedial works where reinstatement works are not completed to an adequate standard. They may also impose conditions to minimise disruption such as specifying the timing of street works. In addition, where street works involve a road closure or certain temporary traffic restrictions, normally authorities publish a notice in a local newspaper under the Road Traffic Regulation Act.
- 9. For the reasons set out in the explanatory statement accompanying Ofcom's consultation, Ofcom has had regard, in particular, to each of the matters set out in section 107(4) of the Act.

Furthermore, Ofcom has considered and acted in accordance with its general duties in section 3 of the Act and the six requirements in section 4 of the Act.
