

I find the notion that I am automatically assumed to be guilty and must pay £20 for the privilege of having to prove I'm not to be absolutely outrageous.

I thought we had a presumption of innocence in this country - it's for my accuser to prove me guilty, not the other way round.

Disgusting.