

I'm concerned that this will lead the withdrawal of wifi by small-scale providers worried about users infringing copyright whilst using their connection. This will basically mean I can only ever use the internet at home or at work, as I rely on wifi connections when away from home.