

I fully support this initiative - the only negative observation I have is that it has taken so long to meet what is a very obvious customer need.