

Question 1: Which of the three options do consultees favour, and why?:

Option 2. That's the best deal we have. Why are blind/partially sighted people not on an equal footing with people who are deaf. I would like us to be equal.

Question 2: Do consultees have any further suggestions for future access service provision? If so please provide the rationale for these suggestions:

I think people need to be told how to get audio description as too many people are missing out. People don't know which buttons to push or about the specialist channels. Sky will charge £75 to come out. We need help on the ground - lots of blind people are elderly. I suggest incorporating help with setup of audio description with the RNIB help scheme.
