

Question 1: Which of the three options do consultees favour, and why?:

Option 2 because there are still several programs, such as documentaries and soaps like HollyOaks, that are difficult to watch. Also often older films are played on the lesser known channels and it would also be nice to be able to watch these again with assistance from audio description.

Question 2: Do consultees have any further suggestions for future access service provision? If so please provide the rationale for these suggestions:

On demand from virgin or sky or from the web does not have audio description. I would like to see audio described watch again option available.

I am not sure whether offcom deal with audio description on DVD's but I would like a simple rule that any film with AD at the cinema must appear on DVD with AD.

Lastly I am not sure again that you can require that providers like sky and virgin make speaking tv planners on their digital boxes.
