

Question 1: Which of the three options do consultees favour, and why?:

Option 3 because, with Option 2 for instance, the menu options are still inaccessible because they are not audio described. My viewing is essentially the main terrestrial (soon to be digital) channels because of this restriction with menus.

Question 2: Do consultees have any further suggestions for future access service provision? If so please provide the rationale for these suggestions:

Would really like talking menus on digital tv please! Sky, then Virgin, plus other broadcasters have not done this to date. It is less a suggestion for broadcasters as something that Ofcom under accessibility needs to start taking seriously. Unless my family is at home, I have limited accessibility.
