

Name: Mr Boxall

Representing: Self

What are your comments on these proposals?

Turning off analogue should not be considered for sometime until a suitable length of time has passed that means many of the analogue radios households already own have passed their 'natural' useful life (rather than them passing their useful life because the analogue system has been turned off).

If analogue was turned off then it would mean a large increase in the landfill of such devices.

If analogue is turned off then an appropriate recycling scheme should be implemented.