Comments:

I raise no objection to switch off FM Radio transmissions in ten years PROVIDED the digital system which replaces it is as good or better at delivering high quality music in the home and on the move.

The present implementation of DAB in UK is pitiful - the proposed move to AAC+ should proceed as quickly as possible with provision for software upgrades to better CODECs as technology advances.

The United Kingdom has a long tradition of excellence in broadcasting - both in artistic and technical quality. This must not be compromised.
