The best forecast:

Steve Jobs has been right before and his forecast about music from the web may well make him right again. Remember he was the visionary who saw the potential for the PC, the GUI, networking and the spreadsheet.

The greatest concern:

The hazard of high frequency waves in office, street and home.

We are in the realm of 'look not, in case ye shall find". Neither industry nor government wants the bad news and will, therefore, not do the research. I have abandoned mobile 'phones, cordless 'phones, microwave ovens, CRT's and I will not use blue tooth in my home.

This ranks alongside the causes of global warming, GM food, and nanotechnology as unnecessary and high risk.
